Express Jet begins new roundtrip, daily nonstop service from Albuquerque to Oklahoma City

WILL ROGERS WORLD AIRPORT (April 10, 2007) – Express Jet will now fly you nonstop to Will Rogers World Airport in Oklahoma City where you can experience a place where trees grow tall and green; historic hotels are within walking distance of colorful gardens and cowboys invite you to chat after cattle market days.

Beginning with their inaugural flight from Oklahoma to Albuquerque, April 16, Express Jet will make you feel like one of the family. Aircraft hospitality is designed to make travelers feel welcome. Seating is roomy.

Did you hear that?
Seating is roomy and the seats are all leather.

Passengers will enjoy valet carry-on baggage and complimentary name-brand snacks as well as 100 channels on XM radios, which are provided while aboard the aircraft. Service is a priority at Express Jet. After all, the company, which is rated one of the most admired Airlines by Fortune Magazine, wants you to look forward to their new destination, Oklahoma City.

“Oklahoma City itself is like a great big welcome center,” said Airports Director, Mark Kranenburg. “The people are very warm and hospitable. The city is laid out on a grid so you are always traveling north, south, east or west, and if you do get a little off track, the locals are always ready to point you in the right direction.”

Some of the City’s family activities are the Oklahoma City Zoo, which Child Magazine named the third best for family-friendly zoos in the country. Other attractions include White Water Bay, Frontier City, Omniplex Science Museum, the National Cowboy & Western Heritage Museum, the Oklahoma History Center, Orr Family Farm, Pole Position Raceway and Stockyards City.

In addition, the City provides a great getaway for singles and couples. The Bricktown District, just 8 miles from the Airport, offers a lively nightlife with clubs, restaurants and a romantic canal with river boats.

According to the Oklahoma City Convention and Visitor’s Bureau the City, which has 12,000 hotel rooms (more than 1,000 downtown), is most accommodating to executives seeking affordable and friendly conference destinations.
