

Media Advisory

MAY 27, 2007

Contact: Jennifer James McCollum
(405) 680-3262/www.flyokc.com

Fly Nonstop from OKC to See Polar Bears Swim

WILL ROGERS WORLD AIRPORT (May 7, 2007) Oklahoma City travelers can now fly to San Diego where they can escape to the gentle and dry Mediterranean climate of sunny Southern California. The weather is most always cooperative for family beach and zoo outings or that special round of golf.

ExpressJet launched new non-stop service today from Oklahoma City to the second largest city in California, as well as the Golden State's capital city, Sacramento. Passengers can make reservations at www.xjet.com.

ExpressJet began service out of Will Rogers World Airport on April 16, with its inaugural flight to Ontario, California. The airline, which prides itself if meeting the needs of Oklahoma City's growing market, also offers daily, non-stop service to Albuquerque and Austin.

-END-

 You can now fly non-stop from OKC to San Diego, the home of some of the world's best swimmers: POLAR BEARS!

 Will Rogers now offers non-stop daily service to Sacramento, the capital of California.